PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Hello SARM members,

I hope everyone is doing well and keeping up with your rockhounding! It's been a trying time and having a hobby is good for the psyche. We will meet again in person as soon as we are able.

The trip to the Oceanview Mine in Pala on the 25th was a lot of fun and a lot of hard work. I met some nice people from L.A., Tulare and Bakersfield. Unfortunately Walt Lombardo was unable to attend. He brought so much stuff back from Tucson that he had to spend the day unloading his truck!

If anyone has new projects they'd like to share, please email them to sarmclub@gmail.com and we can put it in the newsletter. I'm sure everyone would love to see what other members are doing.

We had some technical difficulties with the program for the April meeting. So, May's program will be all about the ancient copper trade between the Mediterranean and modern day Michigan. Copper from the U.P. area made the Bronze Age possible. This interesting history will be presented by Steve Lund on May 19th.

Please join the meeting on Zoom.

Happy rockhounding till we meet again!

President, Dania Boucher

MAY'S BIRTHSTONE ~ EMERALD

Among the rarest gemstones, Emerald is May's birthstone. This gemstone has a naturally green color. The deeper vivid green colored emerald are valued and highly sought for by collectors and jewelers. The most valuable emerald exhibits a bluish hue in addition to the stone's green color. Most emerald are found having some inclusions. These inclusions are often expected and do not devalued the stone. Most emerald are faceted to fabricate jewelry.

SHARE YOUR WARE

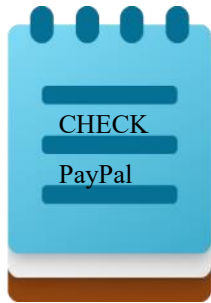

This quartz crystal point is displayed in a 3D frame. It is shared by one of our club members who acquired from a small and friendly rock shop. The quartz point is clear and having a slightly brownish tint. A beautiful piece by itself. 3D frame can be used to showcase your small rock pieces or jewelry, and it is also easy to use.

To avoid overcrowding at the shop, please call to reserve the dates you like to go. Wear a mask or facial coverings at the shop, and keep a safe distance from each other. Come to the shop and turn on a grinder, a saw, a tumbler, or cabbing units. Cut some slabs, polish few rocks, and make some cabochons. Yes, it has been a while. We look forward to the sounds of a rock saw, a flap lap, or just an old motor running, and beautiful cabs we are able to make.
